HUMAN & NATURE FILM FESTIVAL

Educational Project - Summary

 BRING THEM HOME NOW

This year event – 7th edition of the festival - was executed under horrifying circumstances: Half of the festival team was evacuated from their homes, changing location every 2-3 months. Others stayed at the bombed area running to shelters every now and then. The Hula Lake venue where we usually ran the festival - was shut down. We had no idea whether we will be able to maintain the festival at all.

In April we decided to postpone the festival to September, and to pass it over to a safer place - Ramat-Yishai in the Izrael Valley.

Finally, the festival was a success. The educational activity was one of its highlights: more than 600 children and youth from primary and middle schools participated in it.

THE EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

Under the circumstances, we had to modify the educational program to the new location, the short time we had for preparations, and the long summer vacation.

The activity took place on 11/09 – for 280 primary school pupils, and on 12/09 – for 350 middle school pupils.

The activity for the younger children considered the screening of episode from "saving our pets" – a popular Israeli TV series and a conversation with a vet surgeon, on how to take care of pets.

The older children watched the film - "My Hero Brother" - about a group of remarkable young people with Down syndrome embark on a demanding trek through the Indian Himalayas, accompanied by their brothers and sisters. Yonatan Nir the filmmaker, gave a conversation on a life changing impact that being in nature and meeting the challenges it proposed - made for his heroes. He also spoke of his own experience - filming these young people with special needs.

All the participants - primary and middle school pupils, also took part in an ODT activity, emphasizing emotional empowerment and teamwork.

MATANEL CONTRIBUTION

The festival is one of our flag activities. This year it included the screening of 32 films, an International and Israeli contests, an art exhibition - on war and nature relations, at the historic water tower of Ramat Yishai, and a local art and food fair.

Many of the festival suppliers were businesses from the northern evacuated and bombed towns and settlements. Artists, filmmakers, and craftsmen from the Upper Galilee took part in the screenings, the exhibition and local fair.

Due to your donation we managed to maintain this cultural activity during this year, and to keep up the Upper Galilee spirit.
